Parents of Color Alliance – Parent Led

Students of color represent more than half of the United States' public school population, but parents of color are the most underrepresented group of stakeholders in local and national conversations. DSISD is taking steps to support and ensure that marginalized and/or underrepresented groups have a voice critical to ensure successful outcome for our student of color population. If you have a student of color at DSISD, come learn more about the new advisory committee. We will have a small meet and greet during back to school night. Meet the parent organizes and discuss the plans to support our most vulnerable students.

Thank you,

Deborah Sims Fard
